VITAFER.

The Greatest of the Tonic Foods.

VITAFER is the essence of finest British milk, sterilized—concentrated and granulated combined with the Glycero-phosphates of Sodium, Calcium, and Magnesium.

Vitafér is rich in body building and nerve restoring elements, the milk constituents form flesh and muscle, whilst the Glycero-phosphates revitalize the nerves and brain. This latter effect is due to Organic Phosphorus being present in the food in the particular form in which it occurs in the human body.

Vitafér is a genuine restorative, and not a mere transitory stimulant.

AMAZING ESCAPE OF AN EXPRESS.

Race to Avoid Disaster.

A disaster which would certainly have had serious results was averted in an extraordinary manner on the North-Eastern Railway on Saturday evening, Nov. 8.

The train which would have been involved had a smash occurred was the dining-car express which leaves Edinburgh at 2.20 p.m. and reaches King's-cross at 10.45.

This train, writes a member of The Daily Chronicle staff who joined the express at Darlington, was, while travelling at a considerable speed, held up suddenly a short distance beyond North-Yorkton. The large number of passengers travelling in a fairly heavy train did not suspect that anything was wrong, but when the stoppage became a lengthy one—it lasted for an hour—several passengers made inquiries as to the cause of the delay.

It was then stated that the express had narrowly escaped running into a light engine and two carriages running on the same line and in the same direction, and that a collision was only averted by the prompt putting up of the express.

ENGINEMEN LEAP FOR SAFETY.

Subsequent inquiries, however, yielded an extraordinary story. It is believed that there was only a light pilot engine on the line in front of the express, and it was stated that the driver of that engine noticed the approach of the southward-bound train.

He saw that he was being rapidly overtaken, and he acted with most commendable promptitude and presence of mind. He put on full steam, and at the same time opened the engine's throttle.

While he did this he warned his fireman, and together the men—the driver with a lamp—jumped from the engine, which at once began to race forward at greatly increased speed.

The driver at once began to wave his lamp as a danger signal to warn the express, and at the same time ran towards North-Yorkton Station.

There an official on duty saw this signal, and having seen the pilot engine rush through without driver or fireman, promptly seized a lamp with a red light and signalled to the driver of the express to stop. The train was quickly drawn up.

The pilot engine had run on, but the opening of the throttle made certain that it would not run far, as, after the first dash forward at greater speed, steam would soon be exhausted and it would stop.

It was found on the line about eight miles farther south and was removed. The express then proceeded and reached King's-cross an hour late. Few of the passengers knew anything of the danger from which they had so narrowly escaped.

ALIVE AFTER A WEEK IN THE PIT.

Mr. Hugh Jones, who has just died at the age of eighty-six, was one of the four persons rescued after a week's imprisonment underground in the Argoed Colliery disaster at Mold in 1887, when twenty-one workmen were drowned.

For example, The Daily Mail says—

"Yet another 'Who's Who' and this time from Japan. The reader is apt to first regard it as a curiosity, as a sign that the East has now become Western practically almost to the last detail. But

'Who's Who in Japan' is far more than a curiosity; it is a very sound and useful reference book. It is printed in English and contains brief biographies, on the accepted model of prominent men in Japan.

The quality of a mixture is not improved in the least by giving it a label that imitates the appearance of Lea & Perrins'.

A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.

It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhoea by removing the irritating cause.

Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

LONDON'S HIDDEN MUSEUM.

Curious Products Found in Dockland.

Probably the docks of London will never be fully explored; there will always remain some interesting corner which scavengers in Dockland have overlooked and left undisturbed. The officials of the Port of London Authority, of course, would have known about it all the time, with the indifference of familiarity; but not all dock officials know of the P.L.A. Museum, secreted at the back of a warehouse of the London Dock, as a Daily News visitor discovered.

It is kept behind locked doors—chiefly because the exhibits are at the back of a store of precious essential oils—and cannot be seen without a permit. It was formed some years ago, because, though some visitors wish to see the vaults and warehouses, and some the ships, yet those few visitors who desire to know something of the strange products that enter London Port have no means of doing so without spending a week or two at the docks. A collection of the more interesting imports was therefore, got together in small compass, and housed at the London Dock.

FURNISH THE DOCK COMPANY.

The nucleus of the collection was formed by the East and West India Dock Company, and housed at the indicated which once stood behind High-street, Poplar—an institute almost forgotten now except by old hands of that extinct company. Among the exhibits which were removed from Poplar are mammoth and mammoth bones which were discovered while the South-West India Dock was being excavated. The approach to the museum is itself of great interest; the store of essential oils, used for perfumery, medicine, and confectionery, often being packed in queer vessels. Some of the oils are so uncon-mon—like geranium oil, of Madagascar—that it is only as long intervals a consignments arrives. The museum is practically devoted to products which, in their raw state, are rarely ever seen by the public, but which go straight to the manufacturers for conversion into drugs, dyes, varnishes, flavouring constituents of foodstuffs, and so on. The gums, for instance, are surprising in the number of their varieties and uses, some, like frangulic acid, and gum Benjamin, being used in the making of incense; others, like gum arabic and gum copal, being used for commercial purposes.

UNRECOGNIZABLE NAMES.

The trade names of the products are usually unrecognizable. Thus a greyish brown, bubbly, called Glycerin, from the East Indies, and the lower heads of indian hemp, which are better known as "Bhang," Orishia weed, a little imported from Africa, where it grows on rocks, looks unimportant enough, but is used by chemists in the preparation of lithium paper.

Manna is sold in a bottle which one would guess at an ordinary item for import into London, but it is a vegetable product brought from Sicily and Calabria, and used by druggists in the preparation of a mild laxative for children.
The museum has a specimen of a skin as imported from the Isle of Sardinia, which is used in the preparation of the red and orange dyes of hair.
There is also a human skull, now examined by experts, but known to be a primitive type discovered at a very early stage of the investigation of the London Dock, and has been identified.
There is also a mammoth head of a cow, which was found in a field in the East India Dock, and is now in the possession of the London Dock Company.

HEROIC ESKIMO.

Ten Days' Journey to Help Explorer.

Details of the circumstances which led to the death of the German explorer Professor Hantzsch were recently told to a Press representative by the Rev. Edgar W. Greenfield, a Church of England missionary, who has just returned from work among the Eskimos in the Arctic, and with whom Professor Hantzsch lived for some time.

At South Quay, London Dock, clad in rough garb, with top-boots, the reverend gentleman, seated on his baggage in the forecastle of the schooner Ermo, in which he returned from the frozen North, explained that Professor Hantzsch went out to Komorund, Gulf on the Janina Archipelago, which was lost in collision.

Owing to the fact that his store of provisions went down on the Janina Archipelago, said Mr. Greenfield, the professor for Blackland with an entirely inadequate supply for the exploring expedition before him. He had only about fourteen sledges, fourteen dogs, and four families of Eskimos. In my opinion it was sheer madness, but he was a fearless man with considerable pluck.

He reached the coast of Fox Charnel in safety about 500 miles distant, covering the journey partly by way of the coast, then overland and over Lake Kennedy, and down the Long River.
This journey, a considerable one in the Arctic, was very rough going, as they had to haul the whaling boats, which they took with them, and then sledge over the ice and boulders by sheer manual effort.

LONELY JOURNEY TO A POOR CATCH.

At Fox Island the party suffered great privations for want of food, and it was here that one of the Eskimos volunteered to return alone on foot to a cave, where provisions were stored.
During this journey, which took him ten days, the only nourishment which the Eskimo had was a tin of condensed milk, though he had to carry back to Fox Island a heavy load of provisions.

Mr. Greenfield went on to say that subsequently Professor Hantzsch pressed further North to the Fury and Hecla Strait, about 300 miles distant—taking with him only one family of Eskimos (a man and his wife), a sledge, and a team of dogs. All but four of the animals died, and it was then that the professor's health broke down.

From what the natives told us, went on Mr. Greenfield, "I think his illness must have been heart disease.
When he became stricken down the two Eskimos placed him on a sledge, and he was unable to walk, and he was thus dragged homeward for about six weeks.
On returning to the main camp Professor Hantzsch died, and he was accorded a Christian funeral by the Eskimos. The natives read the Church of England burial service in the Eskimo tongue, and sang a hymn."

ENGLAND'S INDUSTRIAL UNREST.

Lively Proceedings at Leeds.
LONDON, Dec. 16.
The situation at Leeds, where the tramwaymen and grave-diggers are on strike, is becoming worse. There have been fierce conflicts between the strikers and the police. There were baton charges and the police were severely handled. A score of baton-factories, which are dependent on gas-engines for their power, have been closed.

The Strike Collapsing.

LATER.
The Leeds strike is collapsing before the ardent spirit of citizenship. There are now more volunteers than can be utilised.
The tramwaymen and gasworkers resumed work to-day, and everywhere the strikers are returning to work, fearing that they might lose their posts permanently.
The Christmas business and shopping have been practically normal, thanks to the volunteers' work, which is described as the greatest object lesson in strikes.

THE HOME RULE CRISIS.

Dinner Party Negotiations.
LONDON, Dec. 16.
The statement regarding the informal exchange of views on the Home Rule question by two Cabinet Ministers and two prominent members of the Opposition, appears to have originated at a dinner party given by Mr. Winston Churchill, the party including Lord Morley, Mr. F. E. Smith, and Mr. Asquith-Chamberlain.
Mr. A. Chamberlain, in a speech at Manchester yesterday, said that the air was full of rumour of negotiations and dinner parties. Mr. Asquith had indeed conversations, but conversations with the Unionist Party were only to be conducted through the leader. He was carrying on no private negotiations of his own.

FORGERY CASE ECHO.

John Grant Released.
Convicted at the Supreme Court on January 4, 1911, by a special jury, on four counts relating to the forgery of a cheque for £200 and the giving of £100 to the amount in the name of "E. Roberts," John Grant was released from prison yesterday and has left the Colony.
The released man, who is a civil engineer, was sentenced by Sir Francis Pigott to seven years' imprisonment, a term which was much criticised on account of its severity. Apparently the Government took cognizance of the public opinion in the Colony, for, as will be seen from the dates mentioned, Grant has served less than three years of his term.
We understand that a private residence of the Colony guaranteed the Government that Grant should be given a chance of starting his own business in a country where the stigma of his imprisonment would not be likely to reach him.

SCOTTISH SPORT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
EDINBURGH, November 25, 1913.

The two great Academic clubs, provided the game of the week. On the whole, the Glasgow men deserved the victory. It is true that, owing to injuries, the Edinburgh team were handicapped, but even when both sides were complete the Glasgow fifteen were superior. They owed everything to their forwards, who in the open played a really great game. Not that the backs were negligible; in attack they were distinctly efficient and in defence remarkably dependable. The Edinburgh rear ranks suggested possibilities, but their efforts were not sustained enough to end in success. Greenock Wanderers never deserved to keep first place in the list of Rugby results, their engagements being mostly against second-rate teams, and they suffered a defeat from Heriotians. Stewartsians began well against Watsonians, but found the cool calculating methods too much for them. The features of the game were the combination of Nimmo and Morrison, the halves of the School team of last year, the brilliance of Pearson, and the solid combined work of the forwards. As anticipated, the former pupils of Glasgow High School were easily defeated by Edinburgh University.

The trio at the head of the League table—Celtic, Hearts, and Rangers—have passed through an exciting time. Celtic thought themselves quite safe, their opponents, Hamilton Academicals, having shown poor form lately; they were almost caught napping, and only got the winning goal in the last three minutes. The Irishmen have now recorded their tenth successive victory, the seventh consecutive without losing a goal, and they retain the first place in the competition. Rangers also took their engagement too lightly, and let Motherwell score in the first half, an error which they were never able to wipe off. And then Hearts, the third of the big clubs, only managed a draw at Dundee. Interest is now centering in the doings of Greenock Morton. In previous seasons it has been their custom to get quick off the mark, and for about three months were to be found among the leaders. Then there always came a falling off, and they dropped into a middle place. At present, however, they look decidedly dangerous, and it is apparent they will threaten the position of the leaders. Though only fourth on the table, Morton, on games played, are relatively equal to Hearts, two points better than Rangers, and only a couple behind Celtic. All the elements of a four-cornered fight are therefore present.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

The Royal Engineers broke the ice last Saturday when they beat H.M.S. "Tamar" by 3-0. This result leaves two senior clubs without a league win—Hongkong Club and H.M.S. "Tamar." The meeting of these teams in the Hongkong League on Saturday will, therefore, be interesting. It will be seen from the league tables that the Club and "Tamar" have each played three matches and they show a return of one goal between them, this solitary one being a penalty kick obtained by the sailors. Such a miserable tally of goals should not be allowed to stand, and to remedy this these teams are requested to wear their shooting boots next Saturday.

Few matches have been played lately; both D.C.L.I. and R.G.A. having a large number of men in camp. The gunners will be in full swing again next week, and they will need to be as they encounter old adversaries in the R. R. on Xmas Eve. This match and the Navy and Army game on Boxing Day should provide as good "soccer" as one is likely to see in the Colony.

The league tables are interesting this week. In the Senior Divisions the R.G.A. and D.C.L.I. are sharing the spoils. It was probably a slip of the pen when a writer, in describing the Hongkong League match, Club v. R.E., wrote "Club draw with last season's Champions." The Hongkong League was won by the R.G.A. last year, and it is an open secret that Green and Co. intend to hang on to the trophy. They are the only undefeated team so far but no doubt the "Dukes" and the R.E.'s will see that the gunners receive a set-back to equalise matters.

In the 2nd Div. Hongkong League the 88th Coy., R.G.A. take the lead. They administered a 3-0 defeat to the Modern R.C. last Saturday, and the gunners from Victoria seem almost certain of repeating last year's performance when they won this cup.

The Hongkong Police are setting the pace in the 2nd Div., United Services League. Fifteen points for nine matches is pretty warm. Still there are four other teams in the running and no doubt after their "rest" in camp the D.C.L.I. Res. will turn up again in the form they started the season with. Interesting matches in this division are Police v. Tamar Res. on Friday, and 83rd Coy. v. 97th Coy. on the 27th.

The league tables are appended.

THE ABRUZZI ROMANCE.

Why Miss Elkins did not marry the Duke.

A report is circulated in the United States that claims to explain the breaking off of a supposed engagement between Miss Katharine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi. As the world was informed by the newspapers, the marriage was opposed earnestly by ex-Queen Margherita and mildly by the King of Italy, on the ground that the Duke should marry a woman of royal origin. The Duke was forced to come to this, but he expected to be selected King of Albania when he intimated that he would marry his own master and would marry Miss Elkins. But the Dowager Queen and King Victor were quite as averse to the Duke as was the Duke, and eventually to terminate the Duke's ambition, in this direction, King Victor agreed with the Emperor Francis Joseph that neither an Italian nor an Austrian should be made King of Albania. Upon the Duke's intimation of his intention to marry Miss Elkins, the Emperor and King Victor were quite as averse to the Duke as was the Duke, and eventually to terminate the Duke's ambition, in this direction, King Victor agreed with the Emperor Francis Joseph that neither an Italian nor an Austrian should be made King of Albania.
